TO THE BALD HEADED,

AND all who would have a fine flowing head of hair Never till lately did we believe that there was any thing that would restore the bald heads but the proof that we have seen that OLD RIDDLE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA from Cincinnati Ohio, actually did cause a growth of hair. We have seen a friend, who is sixty years of age and has for twenty years perfectly bald who has had his hair restored with this Balm in numerous instances of a similar kind have taken some trouble to ascertain the facts in regard to it all who have been there that for one bottle we would not be without this balm on any account

☞ Rumors from Washington state that a somewhat general desire for Peace is expressed by many of the office seeking hangers on at Washington. The public officers although numerous will not half suffice to fill the greedy longings of those who wish to live well and make money some way beside that of labor and economy The Government seems to offer the means of doing this and if they cannot secure the result in some civil station they would take a military one, or fat contracts for Provisions Transportation &c The office seeking mass, a bad thing in its natural shape, is assuming a morbid type and leads to most daring and dangerous experiments It has already led to outrageous uneasiness and defiance in our foreign relations, and if persisted in, as pursued in we fear it will be, must be consummated in war for some cause—but no matter what cause at any rate

Political adventurers have recently been so successful and have promise of still greater triumphs, that they have become unceremoniously numerous and unscrupulously daring We know not where these things will end, nor can we witness the rapid progress of this species of corruption without the most serious fears for the Peace, happiness and prosperity of our country To be daring, bold, unscrupulous in matters regarding our foreign relations and in now constituted the highest test of democracy and the signal pass port to favor, with the powers that be Hence the recent Bar room and other meetings of the Democracy laudatory of the vote in favor of the Annexation of Texas, and to echo the certain radical opinions to vogue at Washington

☞ On Saturday morning we noticed Mr Polk posted about the city announcing the issue of the Bangor Gazette with an exclamatory line—

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again designed to give the impression, probably, that efforts had been made to crush the Gazette by those opposed to its course Nothing of the kind, probably, has been attempted—it was an internal difficulty that stopped it, and with this view of the subject we think the bill was designed the cover the Light, under a bushel—Hereafter they hope to have more outdoor work here

☞ In relation to the two installments of the Mexican demon ty, a correspondent of the N Y Gold.A says that the money was paid by the Mexican Government to the agent of the United States, but afterwards given by the agent to Santa Anna, as a bribe for his consent to the annexation of Texas

Later from Mexico.

Vera Cruz advices to the 2d of February received at New Orleans, contains nothing of importance—Santa Anna was still a prisoner in the castle of Perote, whence he had written to the Congress begging abjectly for life and pardon

Our Public Schools.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

The examination of our public schools has closed, and, so far as I am informed, it has generally been very satisfactory to the committee and others who have attended it Although a public examination cannot be regarded as an infallible test of the merits of a school, inasmuch as the spectators can have no positive assurance of the amount of preparation there is made especially for it, and as some scholars of rapid or even of greater actual attainments than others may, through diffidence or other causes, appear to comparative disadvantage, still it is always gratifying to the committee and parents that the schools appear well To the teachers, also, who have toiled through a long term, earnestly striving to promote the moral and intellectual progress of their pupils, a satisfactory examination, affording evidence of their faithfulness to their trust, is especially gratifying

But my object in this communication is not to notice the examination of the schools merely I wish to pay a passing tribute to the merits of one of the teachers, whose valuable services, I regret to learn, we, whose sons have been entrusted to her care, must yield to his care, are no longer to enjoy

Mr B will has been a most indefatigable and faithful teacher Seldom have we known any individual who possessed to an equal extent, those peculiar and rare qualifications for a teacher. Perfect patience, always self possessed, with an ardent and enjoined abilities much above ordinary, for the discharge of his arduous duties, a love of teaching, and a due sense of the important and responsible trust committed to him His scholars were all, I believe, attached to him and most of them actively so, for they were allured to do so, and was faithful to them and pursuing with them in his particularly well yet unobtrusive manner, he was kind and firm with them Mr Baker is now in Boston but I do not see, strange and sinful as it seems, that any special efforts should be made to induce his return to this place

As the time for the commencement of the Teaching with our public schools will be at hand, I would say to the parents of Bangor, that if they have our public schools, they must be sustained by the presence of their children, and by the support of the teachers, and if they have not such teachers as they desire, they must make efforts and unreasonable complaints, and to use a perverse spirit of opposition to him is ungenerous, to put them in a state of mind that unfits them to be receptive of whole some instruction from him When such is the case, no teacher can be of much use to the pupils He feels that both parents and pupils are arrayed against him and his best meaning intentions are perverted, and that, do what he may, he is sure to be found fault with

Without such circumstances would in the school room and who would not abandon an unfeeling employment, where his labors and influences are so ungrateful Now, seriously, parents ought to be more thoughtful, ought to feel and express more sympathy with the teacher, than they have been accustomed to do This ought to be more sensible of the mutual mutual responsibility of the teacher, and co-operate more with him, in his endeavors to give a right direction to the affections and thoughts of the pupils They should oftener visit the school room, and see for themselves, how the school is managed By so doing they would be encouraging the teacher, and interest their children Children know that the parents are at the end of the term, if they are interested in the education, to spend an hour or two from time to time in the school room, and see the progress they are making, and cooperate with the teacher in his efforts to promote their moral and intellectual improvement, it would greatly stimulate them to deserve the approbation of their parents and teacher, and would greatly relieve the labor of governing them Do parents in this respect by their duty? Every one must judge for himself

GOOD NEWS.

The Postage Reform Bill Passed.

On Wednesday evening the Postage Reform Bill reducing the price of letter postage for 300 miles and over to 10 cts and less than 300 miles to 5 cents passed the House of Rep essentatives—The bill will be concurred in by the Senate very probably, and this important measure at length the second time has taken effect on the 1st of July

☞ It will not surprise the Senate will not concur in the House amendments of the Postage bill, and that the bill will be lost

President Polk has been strongly urged by one of his cabinet to veto the bill, but probably will find it difficult to veto what so well a mass of the entire of very pure and cottage John Tyler is so intensely at the deepest, if possible than he has yet attained

☞ Alexander H Everett has been nominated by President Tyler as Minister to China It is believed that the Senate will reject the nomination

☞ Senator Merrick of Md, has been requested by the legislature of his State to vote against Texas He will pay no attention to the request

☞ At a Legislative loco caucus, the present Governor, Hugh J Anderson, was, on Thursday last, nominated for Governor for the next political year

☞ The Weekly Gazette has been received—It made its appearance on Saturday, under the proprietorship of Bayne and Mower, two young men who have for some time been employed in that office

☞ The Legislature of North Carolina have abolished imprisonment for debt. They find that a cat in a trap watches no mice, and a man in a dungeon cannot make money for him either creditor or debtor

☞ The roads leading to Washington, from all parts of this country, are crowded with pilgrims to be present at the inauguration of Mr Polk on the 4th prox

☞ Messrs Smith & Fenno, the Bangor agents for Parks's Cabinet Library have received the second part, or half volume of Anecdotes of the Annual Kingdom The readers of this work will find in it an interesting matter in this volume

MARRIED,

At the Universalist Church at Orono Sunday evening, by Rev Mr Ela and Mr Wm J Stayton of this city to Miss Mary Jane Read of Orono

In Lamoine 5th Mr Paul F Jordan to Miss Mary Mariquite of Lamoine

The above I know my way of paying the fees last summer. Hence the delay. Hereafter I will do it promptly and many thought I would serve them the direction of sick insolvents. But to the short space of a few months I found the habitations of the poorer class of the community are so filthy as to be unfit for occupation—they decayed, and he offered himself —

LAMMINLIER MARSH.

Lamoine for March 1845, containing nine articles from the most distinguished writers, in the sciences, contracting vices and depraved habits of if they are entered to the care of truth and temperance warrants, who engage in their business only with a view to fill their pockets, and when the object is attained, abandon the business in disgust, we are doing to our children an irreparable injury The character of the man is much upon the character of the boy, and the character of the boy depends very much upon the influences he is under at school It is important, therefore, that these influences should be good it is important that teachers, competent and faithful in the discharge of their duties, and in other ones should be employed should not be permitted to leave for want of adequate compensation

We, are we, as parents, sufficiently thoughtful on this subject? Are we not wont to consider the profession of teaching as a sort of danger, to be performed by inferior minds? Do we not too often think it is of but little importance who is teacher of our children is, provided he will work cheap? And if we happen to secure one who, by his fidelity and devotion to his work gives entire satisfaction, do we sufficiently oppose the difficulties and trials he encounters in our behalf in the performance of his arduous duties? We ought to remember, that in a community, the teacher has every varied obstacle to manage—the obstinate and stubborn the ignorant, the mischievous, the idle and the ambitious and aspiring To manage and train all these, and every other variety of character, properly, requires on the teacher no ordinary skill Without the co operation and sympathy of parents, to most meaning and most fervent wishes can have but comparative power Without co operation and sympathy and encouragement, the teacher is and his cares greatly relieved, and his usefulness vastly increased

If we listen to the complaints, often distorted and perverted of our children, instead of going to the teacher to learn the real facts, we not only do an injury to our children, but we discourage the teacher and circumscribe his means of usefulness We do an injury to them, because, by so doing, we encourage in them a disposition to make idle and unreasonable complaints, and to use a perverse spirit of opposition to him is ungenerous, to put them in a state of mind that unfits them to be receptive of whole some instruction from him When such is the case, no teacher can be of much use to the pupils He feels that both parents and pupils are arrayed against him and his best meaning intentions are perverted, and that, do what he may, he is sure to be found fault with
